A commitment to hand craftsmanship, hand carving, bench assembly and hand finishing has defined Kindel since 1901.

Today, Kindel continues this legacy with fresh new designs and finishes, beautifully tailored upholstery, and offer three levels of custom design bringing your vision to life.

Through flawless execution Kindel produces classic furniture from the Winterthur to the emerging collections from Dorothy Draper. Our ability to make furniture that is both relevant and timeless is the reason that Kindel has one of the longest and most storied histories in the United States.

Recent acquisitions of heritage brand Karges Furniture (Evansville, Indiana) in 2014 and Councill Furniture (Denton, North Carolina) in 2015 has positioned the company uniquely as the preeminent, luxury furniture brand made in the United States that is committed to bench-made methods and superior craftsmanship. The three brands are joined together in the Kindel factory and collectively are known today as Kindel Grand Rapids.
